Started in 2016, the Race for Hope (formerly Share the Love) has become a beloved tradition. It takes place at LifeNet Health's global headquarters. Participants include employees, their families and friends, donor families, recipients, sponsors, and other community members, all coming together to support LifeNet Health's mission of saving lives, restoring health, and giving hope.

Proceeds from the race will fund a variety of essential programs, including donor-family activities, community education on organ, eye, and tissue donation, and research and development initiatives. These efforts are crucial in expanding awareness of the critical importance of organ and tissue donation.

“We are thrilled to once again host the Race for Hope,” said Jean Neubauer, LifeNet Health Foundation Executive Director. “This event not only raises vital funds but also brings our community together to celebrate and support the incredible gift of organ and tissue donation.”
