The LifeNet Health Advantage

Our philosophy is simple: When partnering with an allograft supplier, we believe the decision should be based on the overall value clinicians and patients expect and deserve. At LifeNet Health, we deliver that value by excelling in six critical areas:

Safety

Since 1995, more than five million allografts processed using Allowash[®] sterilization technology have been distributed by LifeNet Health, with no disease transmission. By using a network of qualified and trained recovery partners, one of the most stringent screening and recovery protocols, patented tissue-cleaning and sterilization processes, and a highly controlled processing environment, we counter the risk of disease transmission at every step.

Quality

LifeNet Health's controlled processing environment is designed to ensure tissue quality and safety. Through the consistent application of quality systems, quality control, and design control processes, LifeNet Health tissue graft are designed and manufactured to ensure highest possible quality. Year after year, this dedication to quality is validated internally and vetted by your peers as well as government and industry regulators. LifeNet Health holds the longest running current accreditation by the American Association of Tissue Banks (AATB). Our certifications and memberships include AATB, CLIA (Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments), FDA registration, ISO 13485 (Standard for medical devices) and UNOS (United Network of Organ Sharing).

Innovation

In keeping with the mission of saving lives, restoring health and giving hope, LifeNet Health's focus on research and development has resulted in many U.S. issued patents. As part of its commitment to advancing tissue grafts and regenerative medicine, LifeNet Health has developed key innovations such as proprietary and patented cleaning, demineralization, and composite allograft technologies. A leader in its field, LifeNet Health continually works on innovations to advance tissue grafts safety and efficacy.
